Global Correspondent Banking 1870–2000

glocobank.web.ox.ac.uk

WORKSHOP PROGRAMME

New Frontiers for Data Analytics in Economic and Business History Research GloCoBank Early-Career Researcher Workshop

25–26 May 2023 | Rooftop Suite, St Hilda's College | University of Oxford

Day 1: Thursday, May 25
09:00 - 09:20	Arrival and registration
09:20 - 09:30	Welcoming address
Session 1: Digitalisation, automated georeferencing, and big data workflows
09:30 - 11:00	Josef Lilljegren (University of Groningen)
	Zir - A GUI software for supervised, structured OCR of printed source material.
	Giovanni Maria Pala (University of Oxford)
	The cliometrics of cartography: a digital method to georeference and assess the accuracy of maritime historical maps.
11:00 – 11:30	Tea & coffee break
11:30 – 13:00	Giulia Occhini (University of Bristol), Emmanouil Tranos (The Alan Turing Institute), and Rui Zhou (University of Bristol) Unlocking the Common Crawl to learn about innovative economic activities over space and time.
	Michael Hödl (University of Vienna)
	Mapping Vienna's economic geography: a historical microdata analysis of spatial structure and evolution (1880-1936).
13:00 – 14:00	Lunch
Session 2: Text-mining and machine learning for economic and banking time-series
14:00 – 15:30	Jules H. van Binsbergen (Wharton and NBER), Svetlana Bryzgalova (London Business School and CEPR), Mayukh Mukhopadhyay (London Business School), and Varun Sharma (Nanyang Business School)
	(Almost) 200 Years of news-based economic sentiment.
	Petr Sterba (Prague University of Economics and Business) – VIRTUAL PRESENTATION
	Media image of correspondent banking in the US (1990-2022): An NLP-based analysis.

Global Correspondent Banking 1870–2000

glocobank.web.ox.ac.uk

15:30 – 16:00	Tea & coffee break
16:00 – 17:30	Ricardo Salas Diaz (University of Massachusetts)
	Becoming a central banker: exploring three hundred biographies in a century of the Banco de la República's History.
	Jerry Jiang (UC Berkeley), Jacob P. Weber (UC Berkeley) – VIRTUAL PRESENTATION Who collaborates with the Soviets? Financial distress and technology transfer during the Great Depression.
18:30	Dinner (by invitation)
	Day 2: Friday, May 26
Session 3: Mer	ging databases for financial modelling
09:30 - 11:00	Brecht Rogissart (European University Institute)
	Geographic scales of Belgian financial growth (1870-1914).
	Johan Poukens (University of Antwerp and State Archives of Belgium)
	Historical household finance database for the low countries: a common extensible data model for historical household financial data.
11:00 – 11:30	Tea & coffee break
Session 4: Visu	alising social networks for large-scale digitised sources
11:30 - 13:00	Sebastian Lowe (University of Oxford)
	Networking populism: the neoliberal schism and the transnational origins of the Eurosceptic thought collective.
	Brian Tsz Ho Wong (University of Edinburgh)
	Visualising the wartime Japanese empire's capital and power elites networks of the non-ferrous metals industry.
13:00 – 13:30	Closing remarks & discussions

